RTTS Offers Advanced Training Courses In IBM Rational Software

New Channel Gives IBM Customers Access to a More Comprehensive Training Curriculum

New York, July 28, 2008 – RTTS announced today that, through a partnership with IBM, IBM customers are now able to take RTTS' advanced level courses in IBM Rational tools. Individuals wishing to enroll in these courses are now able to do so via the IBM Training website, streamlining the registration process for IBM customers utilizing the IBM Education Pack and others wishing to enroll via IBM.

RTTS' advanced-level courses supplement the introductory courses authored by IBM Rational and are the same courses developed and used by RTTS to train its own expert consultants. As an authorized Education Center for IBM Software, RTTS' education team has been delivering introductory and advanced training supporting IBM Rational's quality assurance software for over 10 years.

"Until now, IBM customers with the IBM Education Pack were only able to use their educational credits towards introductory courses for these tools," said Eric Smyth, Director of Educational Services, RTTS. "This new channel gives IBM customers access to a more comprehensive training curriculum for IBM Rational testing tools and allows professionals to broaden their skill sets."

The RTTS advanced courses now open for registration through IBM focus on the following tools:

- IBM Rational Functional Tester
- IBM Rational Performance Tester
- IBM Rational Robot
- IBM Rational TeamTest for Performance

Classes will take place at RTTS' training facilities in mid-town New York City, a few blocks from Grand Central train station. Classrooms are fully equipped with the latest state-of-the-art equipment. RTTS also provides private, on-site training for organizations.
